LITERARY NOVELTIES.

The first volume of Sharpe's Library of the Belles Lettres. The Anatomy of Society, by Mr. St. John.—An Exposition of the Doctrines of Original Sin, by a Layman. Mr. Dyce announces the Dramatic Works of Robert Green, uniform with his editions of Peel and Webster; to which are to be added the Poems contained in his Prose Tracts, with an Account of the Author and his Writings. The Journal of a Tour made by Senor Tuan de Vega, the Spanish Minstrel of 1828 and 1829, through Great Britain and Ireland, a character performed by an English Gentleman. Mr. Ackerman announces a New Annual for 1831, entitled the Humorist, from the pen of W. H. Harrison, author of Tales of a Physician; with wood engravings from drawings by the late Mr. Rowlandson. Mr. Guy, of Oxford, announces Geographia Antiqua, or School Treatise on Ancient Geography. The Rev. J. Topham announces a Small Collection of Prayers, in easy language, for every day in the week. Major Leith is preparing for publication a Narrative of the Peninsular Campaigns extending over a period of nearly six years service. The Elements of the Theory of Mechanics, by the Rev. P. Walker, M. A. Wadham College, Oxford. Schola Sacramentaria; a Poem in Rhymes on the Preservation of Health, by Giovanni di Milano, addressed to Robert of Normandy, son of William the Conqueror; with an introduction and notes by Sir Alexander Croke, an English translation, engravings, &c. A Translation of Professor Heeren's Works: one of the most valuable gifts that could be offered to English knowledge and literature. Juvenile Library, Vol. I. containing the Lives of Remarkable Youth of both sexes; this work will be conducted by W. Jerdan, Esq. Musical Memoirs from the first Commemoration of Handel in the year 1784 to 1830, by W. S. Park. Manzoni the Italian Novelist, prompted by an excess of sensitive apprehension, has thrown the MS. of his new romance into the fire. Authors are seldom troubled with such fits of humility, and we could mention some in whom we could easily forgive this species of self-revenge. The Cabinet Album, in a handsome volume, is nearly ready. A Work, entitled Norrington, is in the press. The Revolt of the Angels, by the Author of "Cain the Wanderer," is announced for immediate publication. A Valuable Collection of Autographs of celebrated characters has been publishing at Paris for a considerable time past in numbers, and is now complete in three quarto volumes. Champollion has returned from Egypt and is about to publish a work upon the discoveries he has made, in which their entire agreement with the facts recorded by Moses, Herodotus, Manetho, Tacitus, and others will be clearly illustrated. A French Ecclesiastical Biography is announced for publication in 81 volumes 8vo.; each volume is to include one diocese, and the one devoted to that of Paris is to appear immediately. M. D'Arincourt, after a long silence, is about to publish another Romance, in four volumes, entitled The Rebels under Charles V. A new Journal, devoted entirely to Geology, is about to be commenced, edited by Messrs. Bode, Joubert, sen. and Bozet, the editors announce that they will receive communications in foreign languages, and have them translated for the Journal into French.

FINE ARTS.

Various subjects of Landscape, characteristic of English Scenery, painted by Constable and engraved by Lucas. Mr. Horsburgh has finished his engraving from Taylor's portrait of Burns. Lodge's Illustrious Portraits, folio, is just published; also The Fair Penitent, painted by H. Pidding engraved by W. Gillin. Harding's Drawings of the late R. P. Bonington, No. 2.

PERIODICAL LITERATURE.

The Foreign Review has merged, we perceive, into the Foreign Quarterly. This is a very judicious change, for there were scarcely either readers or writers enough for the two. The new number, since the change, is written with the learning and ability which have always distinguished it, but we confess we think the choice of subjects might have been more happy. The Literature of the North of Europe is not a topic very generally interesting. Blackwood for July, is greatly the best number he has produced these twelve months, and we are heartily glad to hail the symptoms of returning vigour in that quarter.

ECCLESIASTICAL INTELLIGENCE.

Doctor James Henry Monk has been appointed Bishop of Gloucester, in the room of Doctor Christopher Bethel, translated to Exeter.

The Lord Archbishop of Cashel has presented the Rev. William Scott to the living of Pallagreen, vacant by the death of the Rev. J. Hussey Burgh. The Rev. M. Clarke, curate of Tipperary, succeeds to the Rectory of Shronehill.

The Lord Bishop of Ferns has presented the Rev. William Stevenson of Maryborough to the Rectory of Killelanbrock, and the Rev. James Morton of Mountrath to the vicarage of Jassy.

The Lord Bishop of Cloyne has presented the Rev. Francis Jones of Fernoy to the living of Macroom, vacant by the death of the Rev. Mr. Davis. The Rev. Mr. Welland is to fill the vacancy occasioned by the promotion of the Rev. Mr. Jones, and the Rev. Mr. Graves succeeds the Rev. Mr. Welland.
